The Journey Begins

The Grosse Pointe Public Schools is pleased to offer your child the opportunity to begin an instrument in the 5th grade Instrumental Music Program. This is the beginning of a musical journey that will provide years of enjoyment and tremendous educational value for your child. As hundreds of students discover each year, the benefits of this program reach far beyond the instrumental classroom. In fact, a growing body of research suggests that music instruction strengthens academic performance! Our instrumental music faculty is looking forward to teaching your child as they begin the rewarding experience of playing a musical instrument.

What to Expect

In the next few weeks, enrollment for instrumental music will begin with a teacher presentation in the fourth grade classroom. During the presentation, students will receive further details regarding the enrollment procedure. With parental guidance and teacher recommendation, students may decide to study the violin, viola, cello, flute, clarinet, cornet/trumpet, trombone, or baritone. Parents may choose to rent the instrument through the school system, or from a local dealer. Instrumental instruction begins at the beginning of fifth grade with two 45-minute sessions per week. Students are grouped for instruction according to their instrument. An instrumental class schedule for each school will be provided at the start of the school year.

Keys to Success

Commitment
Playing an instrument is a skill that is developed over a long period of time. The learning process is filled with peaks and valleys. Students will need encouragement, especially as the excitement of a shiny new instrument wears off. As parents and teachers who understand the value of music in education, we'll need to help them remain committed. The elementary experience is the foundation for many wonderful musical opportunities that lie ahead. The primary key to success in instrumental music is commitment, even when things become difficult.

Practice
Establishing a regular practice routine is another important key to success in instrumental music. As new skills are taught in class, they must be reinforced through consistent practice at home. Children will benefit most from short sessions spread out through the week, as opposed to fewer, longer sessions. Parents will need patience at first, understanding that instrument sounds will become more pleasant over time.

Performance
Performance is an essential part of music education. Therefore, fifth grade instrumental students will present an evening concert in the spring. The date of the concert is posted on each individual school calendar. Your attendance at the concert is one of the strongest ways you can encourage and support your child’s participation in the instrumental music program.

Private instruction
While not a requirement, private lessons can greatly enhance your child’s musical experience. They can provide more advanced techniques for some, and remedial help for others. If interested, a list of private teachers in this area is available from the instrumental teacher.

Tools for Success

Renting from the School
Instrument quality will directly impact a child’s success in instrumental music. An instrument of inferior quality will greatly inhibit your child’s chance for success. Parents must take this into careful consideration when determining how they will go about obtaining their child’s equipment. For many parents, renting the instrument directly from the school system is a convenient and cost effective alternative. This solution also insures that their child’s instrument will meet the necessary quality standards for success. Instruments can be rented for a single semester, or at a discounted rate for the entire school year. Complete information about the school system’s instrument rental program will be provided to fourth grade students in the spring.

Renting from a Dealer
Another option available to parents is to rent an instrument from a local music store. Parents should choose their source carefully, as not all vendors offer the same level of quality. While not intended to be a complete listing of rental sources, the following vendors have consistently provided quality service to the Grosse Pointe Schools: Eastside Music (Roseville), Hewitt’s Music (Dearborn), Marshall Music (Troy), and Strings Attached (Grosse Pointe).

Purchasing an Instrument
Purchasing an instrument is yet another option for parents. There are many instruments available today, and unfortunately, not all are of acceptable quality. An instrument of inferior quality will adversely affect your child’s progress. Therefore, you may wish to seek professional advice from one of the above sources before making a purchase.
